The Master Gardener Display Gardens is a unique outdoor learning space used to educate about gardening, horticulture, & the environment, provide experiential learning, & inspire design concepts showcasing plants well-suited to our region.

As you wander the gardens and find yourself pining over a particular plant, don't fret! Our specimens are labeled with the common and scientific name so you can easily request the beautiful botanical at your local garden center or nursery.

The Display Gardens is open to the public, year round from dawn to dusk, and admission is free. There are winding paths throughout the 22 garden areas and seating is available to allow you to get lost in conversation with a dear friend or immerse in the beauty of the gardens.

The design, planting, maintenance, and management are a labor of love provided solely by a large group of devoted Master Gardener volunteers since 1989.

If you are lucky enough, you may even stumble upon a Master Gardener or two in their natural habitat! Please feel free to approach them, as they are more than happy to entertain any and all questions you may have about the gardens.

Don't miss out on our top-notch events, classes, & activities!
