

Harrison County Master Gardeners Spring Workshop April 20, 2024

The Harrison County Master Gardeners 2024 Spring Workshop was a huge success this year! Over 60 participants came out to the Extension Office to start the day with a homemade breakfast and had the opportunity to learn from several engaging guest speakers. Session 1 was led by Master Gardeners, Kim Tate and Ron Byerley. Participants learned about propagating plants from seed and cuttings and did a hands-on planting demonstration which allowed each guest to plant a tomato start to take home. Charlie Logsdon, Wildlife Biologist at Roundstone Native Seed, shared information about getting started with native plantings on a home garden scale or thousands of acres and discussed many of the services they offer to ensure quality product, informed decision-making, and satisfied clients. Soil Health Specialist, Megan Ayers, captured the audience with her dynamic presentation on the importance of soil health and the information and services offered by her team. If you didn't know Indiana's Four Soil Health Principles when she started, you knew them by the end! The workshop ended with a Q&A session and plant sale. Thank you to all of the participants, volunteers, and guest presenters who make this annual event a wonderful opportunity in Harrison County.
