EAT BETTER FOR LESS

EatGatherGo.org

Fresh Start: New School Year, New Healthy Habits

August is Kids Eat Right Month. Nutrition plays an important role in a child's health, so let's get everyone back to school and work with some healthy goals.

Plan ahead for breakfast.

Try overnight fruit and oatmeal, a quick smoothie with yogurt, milk, and fruit, or bake healthy muffins or quiche cups to warm up quickly in the morning.

Include each food group in your lunch.

Get the kids involved in choosing which foods to pack and which food group they cover by making a checklist.

Meals don't need to be fancy to be healthy.

Don't be afraid to make meals ahead of time and freeze them for lunches. Don't forget to hydrate.

Keep a variety of healthy individually wrapped goodies (fruit cups, popcorn, whole grain crackers, cut-up veggies, etc.) handy.

Be a healthy role model.

Go grocery shopping together, cook meals and prepare snacks together, keep things positive around food choices, and set a good example with food variety and physical activity.
