

Corbin Leep

Corbin is a 10 year member of the Hare & Feathers Small Animal 4-H club. He is the son of Troy & Sherry Leep.

The major projects that he has taken in 4-H include rabbits, chickens & waterfowl.

Corbin's future schooling/job plans include learning all about welding and getting a job welding.

The greatest contribution 4-H has made in Corbin's life is "the emphasizing of hard work and dedication. Through this, not only can I better myself, but I can also have a greater positive impact in my community."

Corbin describes the most important thing he learned from his participation in the 4-H program "the benefit of learning from experience. Through different activities, I have been able to firsthand experience how skills and knowledge can be learned that would not be available through a standard classroom environment."
