

Urban Agriculture Events

Grow with Purdue Extension, wherever you live!

No matter how you picture urban farming, you just might be right! A host of farming operations fit under the urban farming umbrella, and you'll find a great deal of diversity in terms of people as well as practices. Challenges are easy to find, too.

But you can learn how to grow fresh produce in your city with Purdue Extension's Urban Farming Signature Program. In this course, led by Extension and local experts, you'll learn how to:

- Identify urban farming challenges and opportunities
- Form goals specific to your operation
- Understand and manage urban soil health
- Create a comprehensive site design
- Develop a crop plan
- Manage pests
- Grow food safely from planting to harvest

Find details on your area program below and register today!
